Warranty Policy

The design of all custom printed circuit cards is the responsibility and under the control of the purchaser. Clear River Technical Services Corporation is not responsible for the detection of customer engineering design errors. Clear River Technical Services Corporation warrants only that the printed circuit designs are in accordance with standard design practices. If a finished artwork does not meet the requests as set forth by the purchase order or other such agreement between Clear River Technical Services Corporation and the purchaser, then Clear River Technical Services Corporation shall rework and replace the deliverables at no extra cost to the purchaser.

Limitation of Liability

Clear River Technical Services Corporation's liability for any loss or damage shall be limited to the rework or replacement of deliverables in accordance with the above warranty policy. Clear River Technical Services Corporation shall have no liability for any direct, indirect, or consequential cost, loss, or damage. In addition, Clear River Technical Services Corporation shall use its best effort to comply with the delivery terms and/or conditions set forth by the purchase order, however, in the event that these conditions cannot be met, Clear River Technical Services Corporation shall have no liability for any direct, indirect, or consequential loss incurred by the purchaser.

Notice of Defects

The purchaser must notify Clear River Technical Services Corporation of any defective material within 30 days of delivery. Failure to do so will constitute acceptance of the product and relieve Clear River Technical Services Corporation of any liability and obligation for rework or replacement.
